RECOGNIZED BELL
AS MARKET MASTER*Board of Public Works May Drop SuitOfficial Communication Received By Him Indicates That Legal Strife Is at End.BUNDESMAN SEWER INSPECTOR.

What is considered an acknowledgment on the part of the board of public works, that Charles Bell is the authorized marketmaster, was received in a letter to Mr. Bell yesterday from the board of public works, which directs him to call for bids for some repairs to be made on the market house. In several ways in the last few weeks, the board has dealt with Mr. Bell in a formal way as the marketmaster.

Col. Joe Potter was the appointee of the board of public works and in a test case before Judge Reed in the circuit court, Mr. Bell as the appointee of the council was adjudged marketmaster. Col. Potter and members of the board of public works talked for awhile of appealing the case but no money to do so has been put up by them and Mr. Bell believes that he will not have to fight the case further.

The same decision settles the right of A. Bundesman, to the office of sewer inspector, but some personal reason has caused the board to disregard him.

JUDGE CROSS GETS BUSY.He Will Fine People Whose Cows Roam Streets.

Excuses for the town cow will go no more with Police Judge David A. Cross, and hereafter cow owners will have to present some defense more than the accidental liberation of their stock through defective fences or malicious persons. "In the future I shall fine every cow owner whose cow is arrested," Police Judge D. A. Cross declared. "This excuse, 'my cow got out,' will not go any more. I have seen days when Lycurgus Rice, cow policeman, has brought in as many as five. Every owner declared that his cow had gotten out. I do not consider this a defense, and hereafter fines will be imposed. Law is law, and must be obeyed."

YARDS BLOCKADED.The Congestion Impedes Traffic Through Paducah.

A serious blockade exists in the Illinois Central freight yards today and freight traffic is being seriously impeded. The blockade began yesterday extra freight came in from all directions. The yard force stored cars wherever available space was found and even the passing tracks used for engines going to the south yard were filled with loaded cars this morning. A long string of coal cars with an empty flat car in the center, was being shoved into the second track on the curve leading into union station from the south end when the flat broke in the middle. The car will be thrown in the clear and burned.

PUTS OUT FIRE.Mrs. Edward Bringham Proves Her Self-Possession.

Finding herself alone in the house with a fire in the bath room, demanding quick action, Mrs. Edward H. Bringham, of 620 Kentucky avenue, prevented possible loss from fire yesterday afternoon by throwing pails of water on the blazing curtains and rug in the bath room. The curtains on the windows of her bath room caught fire from a small stove while Mrs. Bringham was dressing. Rushing out into the house to find help or to have the fire department notified, she found that she was alone. Realizing that loss of time might be fatal headway, she fought it alone and extinguished it after the curtains and rug were burned.

QUARTER OF MILLION TO PROTECT ITS BONDS.

A mortgage from the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket company to the Gobe Bank and Trust company has been filed in county court. It mortgages the factory to the bank for $250,000 for the benefit of mortgage bondholders. Bonds of this amount were floated by the basket company.

The aroused peasants, who hitherto have refrained from killing, are now blood mad. Every Jew, who offers the slightest resistance is put to death instantly. In the last 24 hours 75 murders have been reported and 300 Jews are badly wounded.

BURTON IS OUT.

Ironton, Mo., March 22.—Former United States Senator Burton, of Kansas, left the county jail this morning, after serving a sentence of six months for practicing before the departments at Washington, while a senator. He went to his home at Abilene, Kansas.

CANAL GOVERNMENT.

Washington, March 22.—President Roosevelt has signed an executive order, providing for wholesale changes in the local government of the canal zone. Five municipal governments, which now exist in the zone, will be replaced by administrative districts, under direct control of the canal commissioners. Municipal government is found to be wholly unsatisfactory.

NAVY YARD FIRE.

Pensacola Fla., March 22.—Heavy loss was sustained today by the burning of building No. 1, of the Pensacola navy yards. Machinery and equipment for the gunboats Gloucester, Isela and De Lazon were destroyed.

STALLED ON TRACK.

Detroit, March 22.—Nine persons were injured, two fatally, today when an electric car became stalled at the crossing of the Michigan Central railroad. The car was filled with workingmen and children and was practically cut in two by a railroad engine. The gateman blames the street car crew for the accident.

TOWN GUTTED.

Randolph, Mass., March 22.—Fire threatened to wipe out the center of this city today which was saved only after aid summoned from Brocton, arrived. The Warren House, Plant Royal Shoe company and six other structures were destroyed, entailing a heavy loss.

City Beautiful Pictures Will Be Shown on Fourth Street

Object lessons in the "City Beautiful" will be furnished by a committee of the civic department of the Woman's club, one of the especial works of which is the improvement of yards. It has arranged an attractive and practical exhibition of the work it desires to be done in Paducah, for tomorrow night down town. On North Fourth street, between Broadway and Jefferson street, a series of stereopticon pictures will be shown during the early part of the evening when hundreds of people are down the street on their regular Saturday night shopping and pleasure-seeking expeditions. These views

IRVIN S. COBB IN HARRY THAW CASE*He Makes Affidavit and Produces Prisoner's Note.Seven Experts Declare That Thaw
Is Still Insane and Court
Gives Heed.WILL DECIDE NEXT MONDAY

New York, March 22.—That Harry Kendall Thaw is hopelessly insane, and that his dismissal would constitute a menace to the public, are the sworn statements of seven well-known alienists, whose affidavits were prepared yesterday, and Justice Fitzgerald took the bench at 2:03 p. m. to hear them.

The experts' affidavits are supplemented by one sworn to by Irvin S. Cobb, a newspaper reporter, who has been "covering" the Thaw trial for the New York World. It was Cobb to whom Thaw handed his incoherent note after Evelyn Nesbit Thaw told her harrowing story on the witness stand.

Mr. Cobb in his affidavit, sets forth the facts connected with Thaw's dramatic manner of issuing his statement concerning Mr. Jerome's cross-examination of Evelyn Thaw. All these facts were narrated at the time—the insistence of Thaw that Mr. Cobb should sign and seal an envelope containing the original of the statement and compare the original with the typewritten copies which were subsequently handed to him for distribution among the other newspaper men at the trial.

Justice Fitzgerald on convening court today excused the Thaw jury until Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock. All Thaw's relatives were in court. Thaw's attorneys were busy preparing affidavits and statements to be handed to Justice Fitzgerald tomorrow to offset Jerome's demand for a lunacy commission.

Court was in session less than an hour. Delmas for the defense, stated that their answer to Jerome's proposition was not ready. Fitzgerald allowed both sides until Saturday afternoon to file such affidavits as they desire with the clerk of the court. By Monday Fitzgerald is expected to be ready to announce his decision.

Jerome pleaded today for permission to examine Dr. Hamilton orally, but in the absence of waiver of professional privilege on the part of the defense, Fitzgerald said he would not allow the doctor to be examined further at this time.

Fitzgerald added significantly that he would take judicial notice of everything which had been adduced in evidence during the nine weeks of the trial.

Dr. Hamilton yesterday testified in his opinion Thaw is not at present.

JAMESTOWN SHOW

"Paducah Day" at the Jamestown exposition will be Thursday, August 22. The Commercial club, to which the communication from the board of governor of the exposition was referred by Mayor Yelzer, decided on this date, at an enthusiastic meeting last night, and informed the board of governors. Arrangements for local participation in the events of the day have not been planned, but it is certain many business men and a delegation representing the Commercial club, besides city officials, will go.

Tramps' Bodies Not Found.

The bodies of two tramps supposed to have been killed in the wreck at Graham, 80 miles above Paducah, were never discovered, and the Paducah wrecking crew has returned after picking up the 17 cars ditched. The tramps were seen riding in a coal car, one of which was wrecked, at Dupuy, a station one and a half miles north of Graham.

SPRING HOUSECLEANING.DETAILS OF PLAN
TO BREAK PRISON*One Man Was to Play Sick So That Others Might Be Turned Out of Cells in Jail Wednesday Morning*KELLOCK REMAINS A MYSTERY.

The calm after the storm has been broken, and now that the "cat's out of the bag" details of the planned jail delivery for Wednesday morning have been secured by Jailor James Baker.

"George Goodman, a prisoner charged with stealing a watch, has been ill. His part of the game was to take suddenly ill—to have a fit, I believe—Wednesday morning and have the jail cage turned earlier than usual," said the jailor. "We usually turn the cage about 8:30 or 9 o'clock in the morning to let the prisoners out for exercise, and they were shrewd enough to know that the cook, or probably Turnkey Howle or myself, would have gone to the smoke house early in the morning and discovered the hole. To preclude this, they desired to have the cage turned early, before the smoke house was visited."

"The damage done by Jimmie Taylor in attempting to dig through the wall has been repaired. His father telephoned me that he would stand the expense, but there was little to it. Mr. Charles Smedley came up with a bucket of mortar and fixed the hole in a few moments."

Kellock Is a Mystery.

Charles Kellock is still unidentified—at least the police will give out nothing about what they have learned. He is fearful of identification and keeps in the dark corner of his cell. Patrolman Aaron Hurley went to him to get a look but Kellock was stubborn.

"What you want to see me for?" he inquired. Hurley used every possible means to get a view and finally when he told the prisoner that he would have the cage turned and "knock his block off," he came to the light and removed the bandana handkerchief from his face.

The police are diligently working to ascertain whether Kellock is wanted elsewhere.

PADUCAH MATRON FIRST WOMAN TO ATTEND O. R. C.

The honor of being the first woman delegate from the state of Kentucky to the annual meeting of the Order of Railway Conductors falls to a Paducah matron, Mrs. C. H. Blaney, of 526 Clark street, wife of the popular Illinois Central conductor. She was elected unanimously and will go to the meeting to be held in Memphis in May.

STEAMBOAT CLERK
FIGHTS STOWAWAY*In Darkness Down in Hull of Dick Fowler Where Desperate Stranger Is Hiding to Avoid Paying Fare*FRANK MOLINSKI HAS NERVE.

Down in the dark hull of the steamer Dick Fowler, a fight occurred yesterday while the boat was near Joppa, between Frank Molinski, second clerk, and a white stowaway. When the boat left Paducah yesterday morning, a rough-looking white man took deck passage to Cairo. As Molinski was making his rounds taking up tickets, he was told by this deck passenger that he was working his way down by assisting the cook. While the second clerk was gone to verify his statements, the deck passenger hid in the hull of the boat. After searching for a while Molinski finally went down into the hold to search for him. He came upon the stowaway in a corner and received a blow on the shoulder which sent him against a post. Rising quickly he brought his own fists into play and soon had the stowaway's face looking like a harrow had been run over it. Molinski was able to fight to advantage from his perfect knowledge of every inch of the hull, even in the dark, as every day something calls him down there. The stowaway, stumbling around over the timbers, though a much larger man, was punished heavily. He was brought up on deck and it was found that he was armed. Why he did not use his weapons is not known. He paid his fare and was allowed to continue the trip to Cairo, but a close watch was kept on his movements. He would not give his name, and the officers on the boat had no disposition to turn him over to the authorities.

BAD CHECK PASSED
ON PADUCAH BANK*Mayfield Man Gets $50 From American GermanIndorsement of S. B. Gott's Name on Back Pronounced Forgery By That Gentleman.CARMAN IS UNDER ARREST

Simplicity marked the scheme by which J. M. or Charles Carman, a young man of Mayfield, is alleged to have worked off a worthless check on the American-German National bank for $50 this morning, fraudulently using the name of Sam B. Gott, the Fourth street saloonkeeper, as indorser. The fraud was discovered about noon and shortly after dinner Carman was arrested on market by Detective Baker. He had $47.85 of the money on his person. He is held under bond of $500 for obtaining money by false pretenses, but Police Judge Cross says a charge of forgery will be preferred in a warrant tomorrow.

Carman appeared in the First National bank this morning and told Teller William Wright that he wished to write a check on the First National bank of Mayfield. Mr. Wright wrote out a check for $50 as directed, erasing the word "Paducah" and inserting the word "Mayfield" after the name of the bank. He informed Mr. Carman that he would require security. Carman asked if Gott would do and was answered in the affirmative.

Carman went out and returned shortly with J. M. Carman, signed at the bottom of the check and the name of S. B. Gott indorsed on the back. Mr. Wright, however, told Carman he was not acquainted with Gott's signature, and the check would better be cashed where Gott does business.

That is the American-German bank and Carman proceeded there. The check was cashed without parley.

A short time afterward Edward McNeill, clerk in Gott's restaurant, made a deposit at the bank and on being asked about the check grew suspicious. He took it to Mr. Gott who said he had not signed it. Then the warrant was sworn out for Carman's arrest.

Carman told Detectives Baker and Moore that he had met Mr. Gott on a street car and asked for a loan. Mr. Gott had indorsed the check for him.

Mr. Gott says he has seen Carman, but is not well acquainted with him. Carman goes by the name of Chas. Carman.

Headache and Sleeplessness

MRS. G. W. RORER.

Mrs. G. W. Rorer, of Rockville Center, L. I., suffered so from headaches and nervous trouble that she could not sleep.

She has failed to derive any benefit from the many other remedies she tried. She has been completely cured and restored to health, and now enjoys restful sleep, thanks to DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY.

Mrs. Rorer is 64 years of age and cannot say too much in praise of this great family medicine. "I have been a constant sufferer from headache and nervous troubles, sometimes lying awake at night. I saw your advertisement in the paper and made up my mind to try your medicinal whiskey, and it did me so much good that I continued it, but now only take it in the evening and at noon time. I think that it is better than any medicine I can get. I have not had the doctor once since I commenced using it. I thank you again and again for the good it has done me. My age is 64 years."

—MRS. G. W. RORER, Rockville Center, L. I., Dec. 3, 1906.

The above unsolicited testimonial of Mrs. Rorer is similar in its words of praise to many letters received daily from men and women throughout the world, in all walks of life, who have been permanently cured by DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY, the greatest of all medicines.

THEATRICAL NOTES

Georgia Minstrels.

In order to appreciate the importance of the claims of the managers of Richards & Pringle's Famous Georgia Minstrels, that they have the largest and best equipped minstrel show ever given by negro talent, a visit to the Kentucky tonight will convince the most critical judges that they have eclipsed all former seasons in the way of novelties. Ever on the alert to grasp opportunities, they have brought together an entire new company, from the property man up to the leading artists, only retaining from former seasons the famous Clarence Powell. All others are new faces and a program of rare excellence is promised.

Return of Favorites.

Mr. Willard Mack and Miss Maude Leone together with their fine company, who concluded a week's engagement here last Saturday, will return to the Kentucky on Saturday, March 23, matinee and night, when they will produce that great comedy "Brown's in Town." This is beyond doubt one of the funniest plays ever produced on the local stage, and is one big laugh from beginning to end. The management of the Kentucky has secured Mr. Mack and his company for another week and they will open on Monday night, March 25, in a great three-act comedy, "The Green Eyed Monster", when ladies will be admitted free on the usual conditions.

Will Declare Lassing Nominée.

Frankfort, Ky., March 22.—Chairman Will A. Young, of the Democratic committee of the Sixth Appellate district, today authorized the statement that there will be a meeting of the committee held in Covington on Friday, March 29 next, at 1 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting is to declare Judge John M. Lassing, of Boone county, the nominee of the party for the appellate judgeship to succeed the Hon. Thomas H. Paynter, whose place Judge Lassing is now filling, by appointment. Last Monday, March 18, was the last day candidates could have entered the race. The primary election, now to be formally called off because of the fact that there is but one candidate, was to have been held April 2 next.

W. C. T. U. Have Split.

Cleveland, O., March 22.—Factional war threatens in the Cleveland W. C. T. U. Mrs. A. E. Crossman today declared for keeping the union's money at home, to be used in a crusade for social uplifting, instead of sending it to pay the indebtedness of the Frances Willard temple in Chicago. "We can never pay off that immense debt," said Mrs. Crossman. "The rental of the ground alone is $60,000 a year, and the Marshall Field estate holds a $600,000 mortgage on the building. There is large bonded indebtedness besides."

BURGERS LIVE IN CHURCHES

Prisoner Confesses Robbery of Converse Home in Greenwich.

Greenwich, Conn., March 22.—Chief of Police Ritch believes that the perpetrators of the ten burglaries that have taken place here recently have been making their headquarters during the day time in the churches. Evidence that they had been making them a lodging place has been found both in the Episcopal and Congregational churches. In the Episcopal church the rear door was forced and the cushions of the pews and other furnishings were found distributed in such a manner as to indicate that some one had been using the place for housekeeping.

It was discovered that the poor boxes had been robbed and that four offertory plates, two of them silver and highly valued because they were the property of the first Episcopal church in Greenwich in the early part of the eighteenth century, had been taken.

The Congregational church, it was found, was entered by a cellar window, and the same condition obtained inside as in the Episcopal church. They made a descent upon the estate of E. C. Converse, the steel man, and broke into the office of his farm. An attempt was made to open the safe and the combination was ruined. A revolver, articles of clothing, money from the cash drawer, and clothing were taken. The police arrested a suspicious looking Polander. He confessed to having committed the Converse robbery.

CAIRO WILL TAKE PART IN I. O. O. F. CELEBRATION.

Cairo, Ill., will attend the annual meeting of the Interstate Odd Fellows' association at Metropolis, April 26, and will send a delegation of probably 50. It was reported that Cairo had withdrawn with other southern Illinois cities and joined the Southern Illinois association. It has developed that only a few smaller towns have joined the latter association. The breach in the Interstate organization was caused by a refusal of the Paducah committees to postpone the annual meeting last year after all arrangements had been made.

ROTTEN

CONDITION OF RAILROADS PRODUCED PANIC.

Stuyvesant Fish Tells Students of School of Finance—About Two Cent Fares.

Philadelphia, March 22.—Stuyvesant Fish in an address before the students of Wharton School of Finance, paid particular attention to the recent flurry in stocks. He declared President Roosevelt's investigation of railroad conditions had nothing to do with the cause of the recent slump in stocks. It was the result of rotten condition in railroad circles, he declared. He said legislation inaugurated by Roosevelt had been largely beneficial. Regulation of rates so that there can be no discrimination is perfectly fair and proper, and I am satisfied that it should be done he added. At the conclusion of his address Fish answered such questions as the students put to him.

Among others was one as to whether railroads can stand two cent fare throughout the country. His reply was that the railroads need money and it must be provided through collection of fares. He said the demand of public for fast train service, made an expense upon companies that cannot be met by the payment of smaller fares. Of course some of the roads could stand it, while others could not.

No Carnival This Spring.

Because carnival companies of any magnitude will not invade the central portion of the United States until middle summer, Paducah will have no carnival this year. The promoters of a spring carnival here have been unable to secure a company to furnish attractions in May, the month favored.

BONDS TO PAY DIVIDENDS.

May Become Lost Art in Illinois Railroad Systems.

Springfield, Ill., March 22.—High finance in the railroad property of companies incorporated under the Illinois laws will be difficult to execute, if the legislature sees fit to pass a bill drawn by W. H. Boys, chairman of the railroad and warehouse commission, to be introduced in the senate tomorrow by Senator Gardner. This is the measure to give the railroad and warehouse commission supervision of the issues of capital stock with authority to restrict the issue to the actual needs of the occasion for which it is supposed to be issued.

First District Assessments.

Frankfort, Ky., March 22.—The state board of equalization today took preliminary action as to the assessment of property in the counties of the First appellate district. The board will begin hearing complaints from counties during the first week in April, and will continue from day to day after that time until it completes its labors. For preliminary action the board accepted the assessment as made in the following counties in the above districts: First, Caldwell, Calloway, Fulton, Graves, Hopkins, Livingston, Lyon, Marshall Union and Webster. In this district it ordered raises as follows: Ballard, 10 per cent. on farm land and personality; Carlisle, 5 per cent. on farm land and personality; Christian, 5 per cent. on farm lands and personality; Crittenden, 5 per cent. on farm land and personality; Hickman, 5 per cent. on farm land and personality, and Trigg 5 per cent. on farm land and personality. The recapitulation book of McCracken county, the only other county in this district, has not yet come in, and the board will pass upon it later.

Still the water comes, fairly like without any source visible to Paducahans. No local rains are responsible and for a sport in the upper Ohio to be felt so largely down here, it is no wonder that Pittsburg and other cities were swamped. However, the Wabash, Tennessee, Cumberland and Mississippi rivers have all contributed something to the remarkable situation.

The river rose .7 of a foot since yesterday morning. The stage this morning was 41.4. The government prediction indicates that a stand probably will be reached Sunday around a stage of 42 feet; but it is more likely to be 43 or more feet. March 22 last year the stage was 24.6. It makes rivermen shudder to think what would happen should the weather veer around to a rainy spell.

The Buttorff arrived last night at midnight from Clarksville and left this morning at 5 o'clock with good trips both ways.

The City of Saltville will leave St. Louis Saturday afternoon for the Tennessee river, arriving here Monday morning.

The Scotia arrived yesterday from the Tennessee with a raft and lumber in tow for local mills.

It did not require much time to put the Lyda in shape and she will leave tomorrow for the Cumberland river after ties.

Lumber, peanuts, produce and a variety of other kinds of freight made the Kentucky low in the water on her arrival from the Tennessee river this morning at 7:30 o'clock. The Kentucky will go down to Joppa and will leave here tomorrow evening on the return trip.

The towboat Harth came in from the Duck river yesterday with a tow of lumber.

The Dick Fowler is getting in late every night now on account of heavy business in corn and other produce. The trip to Cairo this morning was good in both passenger and freight departments.

Daily Thought.

Do small things well and you will do great things well.

Oklahoma, the newest and presumably most up to date, of our commonwealths, has a provision in her constitution, preventing succession in state offices. In other words, our free citizenry has got the idea somewhere, somehow, that the best interests of the public are subserved by changing our officers as often as possible. Politicians and the public are agreed on this, but for the very opposite of reasons. At a time when the Federalists were fearful of mob rule, and the Republicans, or Democrats, were suspecting the Federalists, with Washington at their head, of contemplating monarchy, there was an unwritten rule adopted about the termination of office. This feeling of uneasiness was accentuated by the jealousy of states. This sentiment has come down to us, although it has lost its meaning, and the people favor quick changes in office. To the politician, on the other hand, the idea appeals, as a good method of giving all a chance at the public trough. As a matter of fact, public service would be greatly benefited by keeping good men in office. We have been too forward in providing excellent means of getting rid of bad officials with dispatch. If, when a man got in office, he remained longer, we might pay more attention to selecting the best men in the first place.

Dr. Phil Stewart and his colleagues in the board of aldermen may not qualify for Carnegie hero medals, but by their initiative in inducing legislation, prohibiting the sale of toy cartridge pistols and loaded canes in Paducah, they are saving lives of boys and girls. Perhaps Dr. Stewart is so used to saving lives in his professional capacity, that it was the logical thing for him to be the first to take the stand for the protection of human life in his official capacity. Dr. Stewart also is entitled to rank in that small but exclusive body of men, who do not forget things after the first impression of horror wears off. Last holidays five little lives succumbed to the lockjaw as the direct result of injuries caused by these cheaply constructed but deadly firearms. Ordinances, prohibiting the use of them by children, are vain as long as dealers are permitted to tempt the youths to purchase them; but a penalty sufficiently heavy to eat up the profits, imposed on the dealers will put a quick end to the practice. Dr. Stewart is father to what probably will prove the best ordinance enacted by the present general council.

Our homeless Commercial club should acquire permanent quarters. Why doesn't somebody suggest organization under the laws of Kentucky, the purchase of property and the erection of a Commercial club building, that will be a credit to Paducah, a revenue producer and a monument to the progress and spirit of the citizens? Such a plan is feasible, presuming that the said progress and spirit is here. It is the undertaking of such tasks as this that puts enthusiasm and vitality into an organization. Having undertaken the enterprise, we know the men of Paducah well enough to know that they would complete it, and when they shall have completed it, all doubt of the permanency of the institution will have been removed. The women of Paducah already own their own building, and the Commercial club will own its home some time and Paducah will be proud of the organization.

McCracken county and western Kentucky comprise the only section of the state that has taken any step to promote immigration, and the state board should contribute as liberally as the appropriation permits to the work out here. The plan contemplates no effort, as it has been made to appear, to bring cheap labor here; but to attract here German farmers with sufficient money to purchase a few acres of land. These farmers are used to intense farming, living as they do in a densely populated country, where every foot of land is reckoned, and they would soon double the commercial value of farm property in this section and multiply the wealth of the community.

While the men are lending a hand to make a "Greater Paducah" commercially, the women are striving to attain the "City Beautiful." Everybody should stop at Fourth street and Broadway, if only for a moment, tomorrow night, to see the stereopticon views, showing city improvements "before and after." Such an object lesson will do more than any amount of talking to bring home to residents their own shortcomings, and the possibilities they have overlooked. Paducah homes and Paducah streets are improving in appearance every year, and the efforts of the Woman's club should give the movement great impetus.

After the police department has inspected all the ex-Kentucky avenue resorts on the north side and pronounced them sinless and innocent, it would be anything but considerate for the "Frontier committee" to further harass the women with possible indictments by the grand jury. It would prove unspeakably embarrassing to the police, if they were summoned before the grand jury to tell what they saw and didn't see in those houses.

Harry Thaw's lawyers have been hard pressed by the tactics of Jerome, in trying to protect their double position, that Thaw was insane when he killed White, and that he is sane now. They did well under the circumstances, but it appears now that the prosecution has cornered them, and the court is going to ascertain at first hand whether or not the prisoner is mentally responsible.

It's the old story. The rank and file of Democracy will be allowed to endorse the candidates for the general council at the primary May 2; but the ready prepared slate will be added to the list of primary entries tonight, too late for the entrance of opposition candidates.

Ex-Senator Burton is preparing to "show up" President Roosevelt, as soon as he gets out of prison. The Democratic national committee should assign him some speaking dates without delay.

We trust that Hon. Louis Head will not feel too puffed up, because it was found necessary to appoint two men to fill his place at the Ed-dyville penitentiary.

Wonder if they have any chandeliers in the San Francisco city hall as fine as those in the Pennsylvania capitol.

ent capable of directing his defense. This question was put to Hamilton by Attorney Gleason of the defense and Jerome now contends defense thus waived the matter of professional privilege.

Fitzgerald's refusal to allow Hamilton to be interrogated in the proceedings to enlighten the conscience of the court as to its duty in appointing a commission or ordering a resumption of the trial, was interpreted in various ways by those in court today.

Attaches of district attorney's offices were inclined to believe Hamilton having already stated his opinion to Fitzgerald, the latter deemed it unnecessary to precipitate argument as to the waiving of professional privilege. The defense seemed inclined to view that Fitzgerald held that Hamilton's evidence could not be taken into consideration and that consequently the district attorney's position was materially weakened.

Just What May Happen Now. Should Justice Fitzgerald appoint a commission in lunacy to pass on the mental status of Harry Thaw he will act with authority conferred upon him by Section No. 658, Chapter 5, of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

"This section and chapter," said Moses H. Grossman this afternoon, empowers a trial judge to appoint a lunacy commission to inquire into the mental condition of any defendant under indictment, before or after conviction, unless the defendant be under sentence of death.

"The trial judge may, of his own volition, appoint such a commission the moment he is convinced the defendant is insane.

"If the defendant is found insane then the trial is suspended pending the restoration of the defendant's sanity.

"If the court believes that the defendant is dangerous to public peace or safety he may order him committed to a public asylum for the insane.

"In case of the sanity of the defendant the trial may be resumed where it was left off, or the court may dismiss the jury and order a new trial."

WHY GERRYMANDER

Act Disclosed

Counties Entitled to 22 Representatives Get 12 and Those Entitled to 6 Get 12.

OBJECT OF MEASURE IS PLAIN.

Frankfort, Ky., March 22.—To show the inconsistency and injustice of the 1906 gerrymander of the legislative districts: According to the census of 1900, Kentucky has a population of 2,147,174, making the average for a representative district, 21,471. Under said invalid act, twenty-four of the one hundred districts named in it have a population as follows:

| Dist. Counties. | Population. |

"Spencer county, with a population of 7,407, and an area of 204 square miles, is given one representative, while Ohio, Butler and Edmonson, with a combined population of 53,263 and an area of 1,241 square miles, is given one representative.

What Was the Object?

By making two legislative districts of Morgan and Wolfe counties, one Democratic legislator was to be gained.

By making a single district of the counties of Ohio, Butler, Edmonson, one Republican legislator was to be cut off.

By making two legislative districts of Bullitt and Spencer, one Democratic legislator was to be gained, both having, therefore, sent one Democratic representative.

By making a district of Estill, Powell and Lee, a doubtful Republican district was made certain Republican with large territory.

By making a district of Breathitt county alone and adding Magoffin to Knott and Floyd to form another district, two Democratic legislators were to be secured. Letcher county, heretofore with Floyd and Knott, was placed with Jackson, Owsley and Perry, adding to that district's Republican majority.

By making one district of Greenup and Lewis, each of which heretofore sent a Republican representative, it reduced Republican representation by one legislator.

By placing Bath and Fleming together in one district, and taking Menifee from Montgomery district and placing it with Rowan county, it was intended to make three Democratic districts instead of two Democratic districts and one doubtful heretofore.

By combining Pike with Johnson and Martin it was intended to make one Republican district instead of one certainly Republican and one doubtful.

One additional district was necessary to complete the number to 100 representative districts, and this was made up of the Eleventh ward of the city of Louisville.

UNUSUAL WEATHER.

All Records For High Temperature
in March Broken.

Not content with smashing all rainfall records, 1907 is following up a course of record-breaking to the utter dismay of the weather bureau and some discomfort to the public. The weather man finds it hard to look 24 hours ahead much less predict the general trend of the season, for purely summer weather is now being felt in a month that ordinarily has high winds and considerable cold weather. Spring has been skipped entirely, just as winter was given the go-by. With a maximum temperature yesterday of 88 degrees, and a minimum of 67, everything was present for an ideal summer day but spring clothes. The clothing stores report a sharp pickup in the sale of summer underwear. The ice companies are working at nearly summer capacity. Today breezes relieved the heat somewhat but active exercise is unpleasantly hot.

DROVE INTO FILL.

Livingston County Citizens Have Exciting Experience.

Smithland, Ky., March 22.—Messrs. William Belcher, W. B. Champion, Sr., Charlie Heater and March is a Trying Month.

"Nor love, nor honor, wealth nor power,
Can give the heart a cheerful hour,
When health is lost. Be timely wise,
With health all taste of pleasure flies."

March is conceded by local physicians to be the worst month in the year in Paducah, in the point of the extent of sickness. The quick changes in the temperature, warm one day, chilly, with penetrating winds the next affect the physical condition probably more than any season of the year.

The only safeguard therefore is to get yourself in good condition. The liver, the blood, the kidneys, the skin should be in first class order or you can not stand the trying month. Osteopathy, quickly naturally restore any disarrangement to any of these essentials of good health. The torpid liver, the disordered kidneys, the poor blood supply or circulation readily yield to its health giving methods.

The treatment is simplicity itself, sane, rational, without the use of harmful drugs. It cures by scientific manipulation to restore the normal functions to each organ. It recognizes, appreciates and uses proper diet, air, water, exercise and other natural hygienic measures, too.

A trite saying is "Seeing is believing," so I shall be pleased to refer you, if you are interested, to any number of people you know well who can attest to the virtues of the treatment in liver, stomach, bowels, rheumatic, asthma, malaria, neuralgia and nervous condition.

SURVEY IS COMPLETED

Herrin, Ill., March 22.—Civil Engineer Meade, locating engineer for the extension of the Burlington from this city to Metropolis, passed through here Wednesday morning after having completed the survey of two or three routes south of here. He was getting ready to ship his camp up north, as all of the work of locating a route in this end of the state is now completed and the survey and maps now in the hands of the general officers, which as yet, it would seem, have not decided definitely which of the three routes the extension will take.

The officer started to take hold of Boren when the latter struck at him repeatedly with his knife.

The Deepest Gold Mine.

Australia now possesses the deepest gold mine in the world. The shaft at the New Chum railway at Bendigo, Victoria, have been sunk to a depth of over 4,300 feet, and the quartz there tapped has been sampled and crushed, with the result that a yield of gold equal to an ounce per ton has been obtained. The operations in the mine have been tested by government officials in view of the fact that never before in the world's history has gold been obtained from so low a depth as three-quarters of a mile.—Chicago Journal.

One overturned Pullman caught fire but it was extinguished.

JUDGE LIGHTFOOT FOR FOUNTAIN AT PARK GATES.

County Judge Lightfoot does not entirely disapprove of the plans of the daughters of the American Revolution, and his expression, opposing the erection of a drinking fountain in the court house yard, applied only so far as his reasons for it went. His reasons were given that he fears crowds would trample the grass and ruin the flowers and shrubbery. He does favor the erection of a drinking fountain at the gate of the court house park, and his plan seems to coincide with the ideas of the organization.

This asbestos stove-insulation saves heat

There are several advantages which mark Buck's stoves and ranges as distinct from all others—one of them is the splendid heat insulation.

A steel range—to be rightly built—requires a thick inter-lining of asbestos—a non-conductor of heat—where it should be kept—inside the stove.

All Buck's stoves and ranges are insulated—where insulation is needed—with extra heavy mill-board asbestos—securely held in place by a heavy iron grating or by bolts and washers.

The insulating asbestos at the bottom of the oven flue—here shown—keeps the hot air in the oven—and prevents its being radiated into space and lost.

There are many other distinctive advantages in Buck's stoves and ranges. Let us tell you about them—and about our terms and prices—today.

A dollar down and a dollar a week will buy one of these splendid stoves. You surely can't afford to miss this chance. Take advantage of it today.

PENNSY'S GRAFT EQUALS FRISCO'S

Chandeliers That are Too Heavy for Ceiling

State Capitol Thieves Are Preparing for Grill, Unless Fluence Is Brought to Bear.

OUTSIDE BIDDERS NOT IN IT.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 22.—Tales of chandeliers made heavy beyond the safety point, of bidders not favored by the architect being excluded from facts upon which to base their bids, and of modeling that should have been included in the original price costing $137,600 extra, were the startling charges made today before the committee appointed by Gov. Stuart to fathom the charges of graft in the construction of the new state-house here.

Not only are the massive chandeliers that stud the ceilings of every room in the capitol about 150 pounds heavier than they should be, but by reason of their excessive weight they are a constant menace to those who occupy the rooms.

This fact was brought out in the examination of John Maene, of Philadelphia, by James Scarlett, of the counsel for the commission. Mr. Maene is the sculptor who designed the chandeliers. He was employed by the Pennsylvania Bronze company, the firm organized by John H. Sanderson, and which was the subcontractor for all the bronze work in the capitol.

Chandeliers Cast Solid.

Maene said that, while it was the rule to make chandeliers as light as possible, he had been instructed to make the design for those to be placed in the capitol as heavy as possible, and that some of the chandeliers are almost solid.

According to records in the possession of Mr. Scarlett, John H. Sanderson, through the Pennsylvania Bronze company, charged the state a total of $137,600 for modeling the fixtures after he had been paid the high rate of $4 a pound for the material in them. In other words, he received $4 a pound for the brass and bronze in the rough, and an additional high price for fashioning it.

"The plans and specifications called for mercurial gold plating on chandeliers," said Mr. Scarlett, of the commission. "Have you examined any of the fixtures to see if they are gold plated?"

"I looked at three," was Maene's answer; "two in the main stairway, and one in the house caucus room. I could not find any gold plate on them. They were merely polished and lacquered."

Outside Bidders Shut Out.

George J. Hammen, contract salesman for Strawbridge & Clothier, told the committee that when preparing a bid for his firm under the special schedule for 1904, he had gone to the office of Joseph M. Huston, the architect, for information as to the amount of material that would be needed, but had been unable to get information that would enable him to bid intelligently.

He was shown a copy of the instructions to bidders which Huston was supposed to have furnished all bidders, and said he had never seen it before. In reply to questions by members of the commission, Hammen said he had asked Huston for the plan and for samples, and was told he must use those in Huston's office, but that they could not be taken from the office.

PROBING DEEP.

Frisco Grand Jury Going To Bottom of Bribery.

San Francisco, March 22.—The grand jury today resumed its investigation of the alleged graft and corruption in municipal affairs in this city, and after an all day session, adjourned until Saturday morning. No indictments were returned today. The entire day was taken up in probing further into the alleged bribing of supervisors by telephone companies, on which 27 indictments already have been based. The supreme court today, on request of attorneys of Abraham Ruef dismissed Ruef's application for a writ of habeas corpus to transfer him from the custody of Elisor Biggy to that of Sheriff O'Neill and to be taken from a hotel to jail.

In the Slump.

Alfred H. Curtis, president of the New York State Banking Association, said: "I heard of one instance where a man lost more than $1,000,000 an hour between the hours of the opening and closing of the stock exchange. At the beginning of the day he had a credit of $7,000,000, with his brokers. When the market closed at 3 o'clock it had been reduced to $750,000. Still a rich man, you say, but in his own mind doubtless a veritable pauper. Things that he could do a couple of days ago are now impossible, unattainable. Luxuries that he regarded on Tuesday or Wednesday merely as the necessities of life are now only things to dream about. And this $6,250,000 loss is only one instance. There are hundreds of other men who have parted with amounts ranging from $100,000 to $1,000,000."

Simply select what you want and tell us to "charge it"—a dollar or two will do. Come in tomorrow and let us show you the most complete stock of fine furniture in Paducah.

Melba vs. Caruso.

"It is said that when Oscar Hammerstein was preparing to launch himself upon the stormy waters of opera he invited a council of his friends to offer him advice," writes H. J. Henderson in "The Opera," in the February Everybody's. "With one accord they said, 'Either shoot Caruso or get him away from Conried.' Mr. Hammerstein, thus suspended between crime and impossibility laid his finger beside his nose and said, 'Melba.' Perchance, it would have cost him less to get Caruso out of the Conriedian fold, for Melba is officially declared to be the highest-priced singer on the lyric stage just now. She asserts that only Patti was ever paid more than she is. Important as this fact may be, it is still more interesting to lovers of singing to know that her voice, one of the most beautiful that the world has ever heard, has come back to its best estate. She sang last summer in London in such a way that the critics were captivated by the ravishing beauty of her tones. It is good to have her back, but a pity that she is not here for a longer stay."

The Original "Calendar."

To the modern world a "calendar" is merely a harmless necessary reminder of weeks and days, to be hung up on New Year's Day and consulted in dating letters throughout the year. It has no such mournful sound as "calendarium" has for the ancient Romans. The original "calendar" of their time was the money lender's account book, so called because interest was due from the debtor on the calendar, or first day of each month. That is why Seneca speaks of "calendar" as a word invented outside the course of nature on account of human greed. It is a word which may help to persuade us that the world has grown kinder.—London Chronicle.

TO BREAK UP A COLD.

An eminent authority on lung trouble, who effected many remarkable cures in his camp for consumptives in the pine woods of Maine, advises the use of the following formula: Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), one-half ounce; Glycerine, two ounces; good Whisky, one-half pint. Shake well and take in teaspoonful doses. It will break up a cold in twenty-four hours and cure any cough that is curable. The ingredients are not expensive and can be secured from any good prescription druggist, but great care should be exercised to have them pure, as there are many adulterated imitations of this pine product which create nausea and never effect the desired results.

Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) is put up in half-ounce vials for druggists to dispense in filling prescriptions. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case with engraved wrapper, with the name—Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure). Guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act of June 30, 1906, serial number 451. Prepared only by Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati, Ohio—plainly printed thereon. To avoid substitution, it is best that the ingredients be purchased separately and the mixture prepared at home.

Trees Turned to Newspapers.

The products of the paper mills of the country, mostly in New England and the North Central States, have increased eighteenfold since 1850. Over $3,500,000 cords of wood are being used every year in making pulp in our newspapers at a rate which is causing much alarm to those scientists interested in preserving the forests. Leading publishers have taken time by the forelock and bought thousands of square miles of virgin forests in Newfoundland.

They had been discussing the pronunciation of "oleomargarine" and finally agreed to leave it to the waiter, but he hedged. "Sure," said he, "I have to pronounce it butter or lose my job."—Tattler.

KENTUCKY MAY GO TO REPUBLICANS

All Washington is Hopeful of Results Here

News Notes and Gossip From National Capital of Politics and Public Business.

OUR INTERNAL WATERWAYS.

Washington, March 22.—"Kentucky in the Republican column," is the optimistic opinion of Richard P. Ernst, chairman of the Republican State Committee of Kentucky. Mr. Ernst has been here for several days trying to enlist Mr. Roosevelt's support in the coming state elections. The Republicans of the Blue Grass state hold their convention on June 19 and from reports they have been bringing to the white house, it is evident that they believe strongly that success will perch on the Republican banners this fall. They seem to think that the enforced retirement of Senator Blackburn and the defeat of Senator McCreary by Governor Beckham have disrupted the Democratic party so badly in the state that its defeat is almost certain. There is an added reason why the Kentucky state convention is being regarded here with intense interest. This is found in the fact that the convention will be the first of its kind this year and that whatever action it may take toward endorsing the Republican candidate for president will go a long way toward shaping future politics especially so since the leaders of the party in Kentucky have been in such close touch with President Roosevelt. Vice-President Fairbanks, Secretary of War Taft, and other presidential possibilities are focusing their entire attention on the coming political gathering.

Although congress passed at the last session an appropriation bill carrying approximately $87,000,000 for the improvement of the waterways of the country, the national sentiment in favor of rapidly and scientifically developing these channels of trade has grown so remarkably that a number of states have made specific appropriations to hasten the work. Word has just been received here that Oregon has appropriated $300,000 to aid the federal government in acquiring the locks and canal at Oregon city, with a view to making the Willamette river absolutely free to commerce. These western states realize that money paid out in this way is a direct investment that will return immediate interest in the shape of reduced freight rates. In addition, every citizen shares in the benefits derived from this cheapened transportation, for it affects primarily the price of the necessities of life. Grain growers are enabled to market their products at a much more reasonable rate, thus enabling the baker to increase the size of his loaf or decrease its cost. The same condition extends to all lines of production, and thus the initial benefits of reduced transportation tolls are multiplied, and effect all classes of people. At the convention of the national river and harbor congress held in this city in December, the state of Oregon sent ten delegates, headed by Governor Chamberlain, to work with the organization to the end that the federal government should provide an annual appropriation of $500,000,000 for the national work of development. This national organization is continuing its efforts along this line, and at the present time is seeking to increase its membership so that it may exert even greater influence with the sixtieth congress.

Another stamp has been added to those already authorized in commemoration of the Jamestown Exposition. It is of a five-cent denomination and will bear a likeness of the head of Pocahontas. Eight million of them are to be issued to supply the demand for foreign postage. A vignette of Captain John Smith in green is to decorate the one-cent stamp, of which ten million are being printed, while the fourteen million issue of the two-cent stamps will have a descriptive scene, "The Founding of Jamestown," pictured in red.

Evidently the American people are awakening to the necessity for the conservation of the forests and the establishment of new ones. Such great interest has been aroused in the subject that the bureau of forestry has been compelled to add considerably to its publications. In addition to the 14 bulletins and circulars dwelling on the general principles of forest conservation and replacement, the service has just issued 24 special circulars, or leaflets, treating of specific trees. It is adding to this series 16 more documents treating particularly of trees adapted to conditions in Appalachian mountains and the middle western states.

American Students in Germany.

In the early nineties it was easier for foreigners to get into the Berlin University than it is now. Today, I am told, certificates and diplomas from other institutions must be shown before the student can matriculate. In 1890, my matriculating year, all that was necessary to become enrolled as a student in good standing, was to have a twenty-mark piece in one's pocket to pay the matriculation fee, and perhaps fifty marks more to pay for one's first semester's lectures. Nothing was asked about one's former studies or academic training. The university was open to all male foreigners over seventeen years of age. Germans had to show a Gymnasium, or preparatory school certificate, but foreigners were accepted on their face value.

I can hardly suppress a smile now when I think of my entrance into this famous university. To be sure, I had the necessary amount of money, and had long since passed the required age limit, but I am afraid that a stock-taking of my other qualifications would have left me woefully in the lurch, had the other qualifications not been taken for granted. There were two years at an American college to my credit. My German at the time had been selected principally from the coalpassers' vocabulary.

To take a Ph.D., at Berlin, in my day, at least one major study was required and also two minors. There were no examinations until the candidate for degrees were ready to promoviren to try for their Doctor's degree. At the end of the three years six semesters, such candidates were called before their professors, and made to tell what they knew both in their major and minor studies. The examination was oral and alleged to be pretty minute, but I have been told by a Japanese, with a Ph.D., degree from Johns Hopkins University and preliminary study in German institutions, that, in his case he would have preferred to take his chances in a bout with the Berlin examiners.

The significance of the title was by no means clear to me on matriculating in Berlin. In an indefinite sort of way I knew that it stood for certain learned acquirements, but what these amounted to puzzled me much of the time, and it does yet. About Finger Nails.

The growth of the average finger nail is computed to be one-thirty-second of an inch a week, or a little more than an inch and a half a year. The finger nails are said to grow faster in the summer than in the winter. The nail on the middle finger grows faster than any of the other nails, and that one on the thumb grows slowest. It is also said that the nails on the right hand grow faster than those on the left hand. According to the rate of growth stated, the average time taken for each finger nail to grow its full length is about four and a half months, and at this rate a man 70 years old would have renewed his nails 186 times. Taking the length of each nail as half an inch, he would have grown seven feet and nine inches of nail on each finger, and on all his fingers and thumbs an aggregate length of seventy-seven and one-half feet.—Popular Science, Siftings, April Smart Set.

ALL WOMEN SUFFER from the same physical disturbances, and the nature of their duties, in many cases, quickly drift them into the horrors of all kinds of female complaints, organic troubles, ulceration, falling and displacements, or perhaps irregularity or suppression causing backache, nervousness, irritability, and sleeplessness.

Women everywhere should remember that the medicine that holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female ills is made from simple native roots and herbs. For more than thirty years it has been helping women to be strong, regulating the functions perfectly and overcoming pain. It has also proved itself invaluable in preparing for child birth and the change of life.

Mrs. A. M. Hagermann, of Bay Shore, L. I., writes:—Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—“I suffered from a displacement, excessive and painful functions so that I had to lie down or sit still most of the time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me a well woman so that I am able to attend to my duties. I wish every suffering woman would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and see what relief it will give them.”

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female illness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. for advice. She is the Mrs. Pinkham who has been advising sick women free of charge for more than twenty years, and before that she assisted her mother-in-law Lydia E. Pinkham in advising. Therefore she is especially well qualified to guide sick women back to health.

The Ditch Brigade.
(The army will build the Panama canal.—News item.)
Half a league, half a league,
Half a league onward!
Down in the Panama ditch
Dug the six hundred.
“Forward, the Ditch Brigade!
Onto the job,” he said,
Down in the Panama ditch
Dug the six hundred.

“Forward the Ditch Brigade!”
Not with keen saber blade,
But with pick and spade,
As the isthmus they sundered;
Their not the right to quit,
And gild the empty mitt;
Their but the job to fit—
Down in the Panama ditch
Dug the six hundred.

Jungles to right of them,
Skeeters all around them,
Taft in the rear of them,
Typewriters thundered;
Stormed at by Teddy, too,
Bravely they dug and true,
Fiercely the shovels flew—
Down in the Panama Ditch
Dug the six hundred.

When can their glory fade
Heroes of the pick and spade!
All the world wondered,
Heater brass buttons and braid,
Honor the Ditch Brigade,
Noble six hundred!

Political Stories.

Among the good political stories abounding in the diary of Sir M. E. Grant-Duff are these:

Sir William Gregory told Grant-Duff that as a boy he was taken to see Lord Melbourne in his official room. After he had been there for some time the great minister said: “My boy, is there anything here you would like?” “Yes,” he answered, “that”—pointing to a large stick of sealing-wax. “Very well, indeed,” said Lord Melbourne, pressing it on him, together with a bundle of pens. “Begin life early. All these things belong to the public, and your business must be always to get out of the public as much as you can.” Gladstone was present. “Highly immoral doctrine!” he exclaimed.

Another story quite as cynical concerns Disraeli. Sir John Hawker once said to him as they sat together in the house of commons: “You know all these men opposite us well, I don't mean that front bench—we all know more or less about those there—I mean the men immediately behind. Tell me about them.” Disraeli adjusted his eyeglass and looked along the bench. “Do you see that man?” he said, pointing to one of the members. “He is the greatest rascal living—I knighted him!”—London Tid-Bits.

Hubby—“Awfully sorry I'm so late, dear. Been detained on business with Newcombe all the evening.”
Wife—“Yes, darling. Mr. Newcombe has been waiting here for you since 9 o'clock.”—Bystander.

“Tell the man how old you are” urged the mother. The child hesitated.
“Ah, I see,” said the stranger. “It's a girl.”—Detroit Free Press.

TO LINCOLN PARK PIKE TO BE BUILT

Jefferson Fiscal Court is Considering Routes

Bullitt, Spencer, Nelson and Larue Counties Will Be Traversed by Proposed Boulevard.

GOES TO OLD LINCOLN FARM.

Louisville, March 22.—When the fiscal court assembled shortly after 11 o'clock this morning a number of representatives from counties interested in the proposed Lincoln Park boulevard were present to advocate their respective claims. Louisville, of course, holds the key to the situation and Jefferson county will therefore pick the way the boulevard will go.

One proposed route is by the Bardstown pike through Bardstown and, after running fifteen miles through Jefferson county, will lie six miles in Bullitt, two and one-half miles in Spencer and twenty-six miles in Nelson county to the Larue county line. From there on to the Lincoln farm is eight miles. Another warmly advocated route is rather shorter and, after leaving Jefferson county, is principally in Bullitt and Hardin counties and runs through Shepherdsville and Elizabethtown.

The third proposed route lies through West Point, but it has not been very vigorously advocated.

Upon calling the Fiscal Court to order Judge Wilson announced that the boulevard was set a special hearing at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Several Delegations Here.

Here representing Nelson county are Judge John S. Kelly, of Bardstown, Magistrates W. D. McClain and E. H. Arnold, J. B. Bowles, R. C. Cherry, Leslie Samuels, John J. Barry, Sylvester Repler, Clarence Redman, E. C. Duncan, Frank Boone, M. W. Halsted. From Spencer county, advocating the same route are Judge John Speed and Judge Shindler. The Nelson and Spencer representatives lay special stress on the advantage of their route because it runs right by a place where Lincoln and his family moved while a boy. There is also a view of the site of the school house where the great emancipator went to school. The ruins of the distillery where his father and mother were employed, can be seen. All these points of interest are in Larue county.

R. M. Ford and W. H. Boone are here for Larue county. Representing the Shepherdsville route are the following from Bullitt county: County Judge R. F. Hays, C. B. Bradbury, J. O. Carruthers, Ben Chepeze and Robert Smith. This route has the advantage of being shorter than the other.

Of Chief Importance.

A Humane Appeal.

A humane citizen of Richmond, Ind., Mr. U. D. Williams, 107 West Main St., says: “I appeal to all persons with weak lungs to take Dr. King's New Discovery, the only remedy that has helped me and fully comes up to the proprietor's recommendation.” It saves more lives than all other throat and lung remedies put together. Used as cough and cold cure the world over. Cures asthma, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, quinsy, hoarseness, and phthisis, stops hemorrhages of the lungs and builds them up. Guaranteed at all druggists, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Weak Lungs

its cod liver oil elements heal and strengthen the lungs

Many people inherit weak lungs which are likely to be attacked by consumption. So also are lungs weakened by disease or by a stubborn hacking cough.

No matter what the cause Vinol strengthens weak lungs and gives one the power to throw off wasting diseases.

The reason that Vinol has such power to heal and strengthen is because it contains in a highly concentrated form all of the curative, medicinal, and strength-creating elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cods' livers, with the useless, nauseating oil eliminated and tonic iron added.

So sure are we of what Vinol will do that we ask every person in Paducah suffering from weak lungs, stubborn hacking coughs or any wasting disease to try Vinol on our offer to return money if it fails. W. B. McPherson, Druggist.

NOTE.—While we are sole agents for Vinol in Paducah, it is now for sale at the leading drug store in nearly every town and city in the country. Look for the Vinol agency in your town.

A Plea for the Indolent.

Men who fill unaccustomed positions, exacting severe mental toll, are almost sure to be short-lived. Persons whose calling subject them to a heavy nervous strain ought occasionally to spend a day or two in bed. Even an afternoon nap is a tonic, and may do much to lessen the wear and tear of nervous, anxious days. One of the ablest statesmen of modern times, when once reproached in early life for indolence, retorted, “I am storing energy.”—Success.

Lively Times in Want Ad: Land

The man “on a quest is abroad in the land—in “WANT-AD-LAND.”

He is a many-sided man—for he wants to trade a folding bed for a phonograph—a carriage—to hire a servant girl—to find another clerk for his store—to rent some furnished rooms—to find a business partner—to sell a patent—to dispose of a business venture—to sell such things as trombones and trucks, bonds and book-cases, crutches and cash-registers—to find the elusive “better tenant”—to buy a piece of machinery—to buy and to sell and to lease and to exchange and to hire and to find all sorts of things in all parts of the city.

The “QUEST-MAN” makes “WANT-AD-LAND” an interesting place—and the want ad. column INTERESTING AND IMPORTANT READING!

ORGANIZED LAWLESSNESS IN KENTUCKY

A spasmodic outbreak of passion, whether it be of individuals or communities, is always to be deprecated, but it does not indicate any serious demoralization of public opinion.

But whether lawlessness becomes organized when men described as “night raiders” go about the country intimidating the private citizen, confiscating and destroying his property and defying the officers of the law, we have manifest an altogether different situation, and one which the public may not long tolerate without serious loss to its most important interests.

In Western Kentucky at this time there is organized lawlessness. Just how comprehensive the organization, just how far men responsible are known to the courts, we have no means at hand of determining, but there are sides in the grand jury, in the petit jury, in the sheriff, in the commonwealth's attorney and in the judges ample power to suppress any organization, bent upon the destruction of property, the intimidation of men, or the taking of life.

Some time ago the Evening Post quoted at length the statutes of the State, passed years ago to meet just such a condition of affairs as has recently arisen in Western Kentucky. We have such confidence in the sober judgment of the people of Kentucky; we have such faith in their courage and their conservatism, that we believe that the night raiders (the lawless men who, under the plea of resisting lawless combinations, are themselves encouraging and strengthening the very influence they pretend to combat), will be detected, arrested, fairly tried, promptly condemned and severely punished.

It has been customary for the people of Western Kentucky to talk about the mountain counties of the State with a certain kind of contempt, or at least in a “holier than thou” spirit.

There is no longer any justification for such an attitude. Yet, we regret to say, that in Eastern Kentucky there is still prevalent a disposition of various factions to stand by one another, and that, even when the forms of law are observed, they are so twisted from their original purpose as to become a matter of offense. It is to be seriously regretted that in a trial so important alike to the individuals and to the State as that of Mr. Hargis, Judge Carnes should have taken such extraordinary action this week and formerly as to shake the confidence of the people in any conclusion reached by such processes.

The Evening Post is not disposed to assume the guilt of any man before he has been tried. In our judgment Mr. Hargis is entitled to exactly the same consideration from the law and the officers of the law as for instance, Mr. Caleb Powers or any one else accused of a crime, but not convicted. At the same time one may not fail to note the difference—the wide difference—between the rules of law as applied to the case of Caleb Powers and to the privileges secured under rulings of the court in the case against Mr. Hargis.

If Judge Hargis be innocent of the crime laid to his charge, there is no man in the mountains who should strive more earnestly for the observance of all the forms of the law, the suppression of crime, the punishment of criminals and the restoration of the civil authorities to the control of public affairs.

No man ought to be sacrificed to the clamor of the mob, and no man ought to be tried, condemned and executed by public opinion before he has had his day in court.

But this does not mean that there is in Kentucky no method of shattering a conspiracy or that the laws are impotent to punish crime or that personal influence or party necessity may with impunity or with public applause pervert the law postpone justice or protect men who are unwilling to come into court to vindicate their good name.

We publish today a communication concerning the situation in Kentucky, and we emphasize the appeal made in that letter by this direct reference to the conditions prevailing in the east and the west. It is hardly necessary to say that in our judgment, there are conditions prevailing in Louisville, in Lexington and in Covington which, while not so open, so aggravated or so bloody, are just as discreditable to the State's name and to its influence as those existing to the east and to the west of the city.

Our correspondent signs himself “A Loyal Kentuckian,” and speaks like one. He makes his appeal to the Members of New York's Four Hundred Lost Heavily in the Wall Street Slump

New York, March 22.—That members of the "400" were caught heavily in the recent slump in stock values was stated today in the Wall Street district on good authority. The aggregate losses of one group of young society men and women have been conservatively placed at $20,000,000.

The head of a family whose ancestor was founder of one of the greatest railroad systems in the country is said to have been 100,000 shares long on Union Pacific. His loss in this stock alone is over $3,000,000. A woman member of the Vanderbilt family also is said to be a heavy loser. A close friend of the young railroad man also a society leader, is said to have been almost "broke" in last Thursday's crash. He has since sold his new seventy mile an hour automobile to get ready cash, and today is reported to have put his Tuxedo villa on the market. The rush into the market of Thos. Ryan is said to have been principally to save from absolute ruin the first named society speculator. That he was successful is said to have been due only to rapid manipulation of large blocks of Interborough and Consolidated Gas.

Society Woman Face Penury. That society was hit hard by the crash did not become known until its members began to negotiate their old line securities. Women, reported to have been drawn into speculation through their male relatives, are said to have been the tools of big financiers.

Stories of the heavy losses reached the street from the clubs mostly frequented by young men of wealth and old family connections. Many more of such men, it appears, have been sorely hit in the market than had previously been believed. It is probable not half has been told, for the stories of losses are notoriously modest in showing themselves. Many men in Wall Street assert it is easy to trace the source of the information secured by these losers on Union and Southern Pacific close to Mr. Harriman, and according to the story of one young man he proclaimed Mr. Harriman a prince of good fellows last fall. At that time the young man's account showed a profit of $1,000,000, but subsequently the profit vanished, and a million in cash went with it.

According to another story put out by one of the news agencies the losses of three possessors of large inherited wealth alone aggregated $20,000,000. However excessive the estimate seems, it appears to be widely believed the losses of one man, often referred to, exceeded $6,000,000.

Market Takes Another Tumble. The London market reflected no advance or decline of American stocks today, but soon after the New York exchange had opened selling pressure was developed which carried active speculative issues down from three to seven points.

So sharp was the break at the opening that many stocks fell from one to three points in the first few minutes' trading. Through the first hour there seemed to be little or no support for the issues that were being pounded hardest. The break was helped along if not largely the result of numerous rumors in regard to the weakness of stock exchange houses that had been hit hard by the recent panicky market.

E. H. Harriman was greeted upon his arrival at his office, shortly before noon, with the news of the sharp break in Union Pacific. He was cheerful.

"Don't worry about the market," said he; "it will take care of itself when the time comes. Up to date there has been only one side to it. The bears have been having their things. Now there is going to be another side. Let the bears play it out."

PRESS PROMOTER OF WORLD PEACE

Statement at Meeting of Trade in Berlin

Good Influence Treaties in Making Countries of Whole Earth Prosperous.

MOST INTELLIGENT ADDRESS.

Addresses breathing the spirit of international good will were features of the annual dinner of the American Association of Commerce and Trade in Berlin on Feb. 18, which was attended by many consuls-general and consuls from various cities in Germany and by attaches of the diplomatic corps of other cities in Europe. One of the chief addresses was delivered by Frank Hesseberg, president of the association, who proposed the toast, "The American Association of Commerce and Trade in Berlin." He spoke of the prosperity that is general in the United States. The farmers, he said, never had had such a succession of good years. In mineral wealth, the country, occupied a leading position.

"The yield of copper in the United States in 1906," he said, "is estimated at 780,000 tons. The Calumet and Hecla and the Anaconda mines each now produces annually more copper than did all the mines of the world during the first five years of the nineteenth century, and there are fifteen individual companies, each of which turns out more than was produced all over the globe 100 years ago." Mr. Hesseberg quoted other figures showing the development of the country, and added:

"And here, gentlemen, I should like to repeat that in order to turn all these magnificent results to best advantage you require the good influence of treaties of commerce and the co-operation of such associations as ours and institutions of a similar character. It was for this reason that we gave so warm a welcome to the United States tariff commissioners whose labors, recently brought to a close, we earnestly trust will bear good fruit and will ultimately result in a commercial treaty satisfactory to both countries."

"I have also to thank our members for the assistance they gave, and I express the hope at the same time that they will continue in the future to place their special knowledge at the disposal of the association and as in the past will also henceforth unselfishly do all in their power to help in furthering its objects and widening the field of its influence."

"With the vast extent of the territory of the United States it is but natural that our internal trade should be enormous and that the bulk of our bountiful crops should be consumed at home. Nevertheless it is a curious feature which I think is not generally appreciated that the total trade of Germany (exports and imports combined) is greater than the total exports and import trade of the United States."

"The figures of 1904 (I have no complete figures available of a later date) are the Germany about $2,900,000,000 and for the United States about $2,600,000,000. Since 1874 Germany and America have exhibited singularly parallel results."

"But, if you go back as far as 1854 and compare the figures of that year with those of 1904 the divergence is very great, whereas if you go back another 50 years, to the beginning of the 19th century, you find yourself face to face with a state of affairs that seems absolutely incredible.

"At that time I believe I am right in saying, the territory of the United States did not touch the gulf of Mexico at any point."

"At the end of the 18th century the Spaniards owned Louisiana and the people of the United States could not reach the gulf by way of the Mississippi River, except with the consent of the Spanish Government. Our merchants after much negotiation succeeded in securing the right from Spain to adopt their goods on the island of Orleans, but this right was declared lapsed shortly after Louisiana had been transferred to France. It is difficult to imagine the dreadful plight the traders of the Mississippi Valley found themselves in after this announcement, and the most desperate proposals were put forward on their part."

"However, the outcome of it all was one of the most extraordinary transactions in history, and I think it is generally admitted that the purchase of Louisiana forms the starting point of an era of prosperity more phenomenal than any the world has ever seen."

"But the picture is not without its deep shadows, and the tremendous accumulation of wealth in a comparatively short space of time has unfortunately led to a certain number of grave abuses and we have had to deplore some scandalous disclosures in quarters where we should least have expected them, but bad as these cases admittedly have been, we know—we have the conviction—that the people of the United States as a whole are as straightforward as honorable and have as high standard of duty and morality as any people in the world."

"Thank Heaven that spirit is still alive among us which animates the three young farmers of Westchester County John Paulding, David Williams and Isaac Vanwart in revolutionary times when they firmly refused the tempting bribes offered to them by Major Andre."

"The same spirit that animated those three patriots 130 years ago lives in the masses of people today, the love of country is as great, the standard of duty is as high and the genuine honesty of their character can be as absolutely depended upon."

Elmer E. Roberts spoke of "The Press and International Good Will." He spoke of the importance of maintaining international good will. Trade suffered, he said, when resentment was felt between peoples.

"Foreign offices, statesmen and diplomatists," he added, "so well understood this that a considerable part of their effort is directed toward creating a favorable atmosphere for commercial and political intercourse. It is in this work that the press ought and does join the work of interpreting one country to another, of humanizing, so to say, one people to the other by making them appear real, showing by the daily narrative of things done that the other folk are like ourselves with interesting differences. The similarities between nationalities must, I think, seem to us far more evident than the contrasts. Europe to America used to seem far away and strange, and was, but now the politics, the new thing in bacteriology, electricity, or airships in one country is known across the water the next morning. The newspapers are engaged in making people known to each other, sometimes unconsciously, but always."

"You may perhaps say that newspapers are themselves the cause of much international suspicion and ill will that they originate or hasten to reproduce anything that contributes to discord. That is often true, but it is equally true that the newspapers collectively supply the antidote. The newspapers taken together revise, correct, modify, readjust the errors of their more lawless members. You found them ready the other day to crush the sensation of twenty-four hours of a Japanese ultimatum to the United States. The newspapers themselves destroy the untruth of the hour by pouring in the light. As for myself, I am ever astonished at the thousands of facts undisputed and undisputable that are crowded into each day's newspapers, facts concerning parliaments and courts, the utterances and acts of public persons, the discoveries of science, the new books, the movements of shipping and the state of the market. When a thought is given to the contradictions of testimony in the law courts with their sanctions of oaths, the solemnity of the proceedings and the penalties that follow upon willful error, the wonder to me is the greater that so much the newspapers contain is true both in spirit and in fact."—N. Y. Commercial.

Halley's Comet. Assuming that the comet of March falls to realize the sinister predictions of a somewhat unintelligible kind which have been made regarding it, we may reasonably expect to see the most famous of all comets in only three or four years' time. This is Halley's comet, observed by him in 1682, and found to have an orbit identical with that of a bright comet seen by Kepler in 1607. This comet was also seen previously, at intervals of 75 years. It seems to have been observed 11 years before the Christian era, and it is delineated in the Bayeux tapestry in commemoration of its visit in the year of the Norman conquest. In 1456 it caused great alarm and brought forth a papal bull. It will doubtless cause some superstitious fears in Italy, even in the twentieth century, but astronomers in our part of the world are interesting themselves in seeing how nearly they can predict its return. It is hoped that at any rate they may be as near the mark as the astronomers of the year 1835, when Halley's comet was last seen. —Pall Mall Gazette.

The English people have always been interested in theory, but they have not always acted on it. In theory, we have the notion of Montesquieu about the balance of power. We seem to have in our brains two water-tight or rather thought-tight compartments, the one for theory and the other for practice.

I am not quarreling with this: I am only pointing it out. We could not get along in any other way. We can't confine a political system in the straight-jacket of a theory: It is a fortunate fact that the violation of the theories of our political system has led to no practical inconvenience.—Woodrow Wilson.

CHAPTER XXX.

AND so, once again, the woman conquered. Whatever Eve's intentions were, whatever she wished to evade or ward off, she was successful in gaining her end. For more than two hours she kept Loder at her side. There may have been moments in those two hours when the tension was high, when the efforts she made to interest and hold him were somewhat strained. But if this was so it escaped the notice of the one person concerned, for it was long after tea had been served, long after Eve had offered to do penance for her monopoly of him by driving him to Chilcote's club, that Loder realized with any degree of distinctness that it was she and not he who had taken the lead in their interview; that it was she and not he who had bridged the difficult silences and given a fresh direction to dangerous channels of talk. It was long before he recognized this, but it was still longer before he realized the far more potent fact that without any coldness, without any lessening of the subtle consideration she always showed him, she had given him no further opportunity of making love.

Talking continuously, elated with the sense of conflict still to come, he drove with her to the club. Considering that drive in the light of later events, his own frame of mind invariably filled him with incredulity. In the eyes of any sane man his position was not worth an hour's purchase, yet in the blind self-confidence of the moment he would not have changed places with Fraide himself. The great song of self was sounding in his ears as he drove through the crowded streets, conscious of the cool, crisp air, of Eve's close presence, of the numberless infinitesimal things that went to make up the value of life. It was this acknowledgment of personality that upheld him—the personality, the power that had carried him unwaveringly through eleven colorless years; that had impelled him toward this new career when the new career had first been opened to him; that had been a way for him in this fresh existence against colossal odds; the indomitable force that had trampled out Chilcote's footmarks in public life, in private life—in love. It was a triumphant psalm that clamored in his ears, something persistent and prophetic, with an undernote of menace—the cry of the human soul that has dared to stand alone.

His glance was keen and bright as he waited for a moment at the carriage door and took Eve's hand before entering the club.

"You're dining out tonight?" he said. His fingers, always tenacious and masterful, continued to hold hers. The compunction that had driven him temporarily toward sacrifice had passed. His pride, his confidence and with them his desire, had flowed back in full measure.

Eve, watching him attentively, paled a little. "Yes," she said, "I'm dining with the Bramfells."

"What time will you get home?" he scarcely realized why he put the question. The song of self still sounded triumphantly, and he responded without reflection.

His eyes held hers, his fingers pressed her hand; the intense mastery of his will passed through her in a sudden sense of fear. Her lips parted in deprecation, but he, closely attentive of her expression, spoke again quickly.

"When can I see you?" he asked very quietly.

Again she was about to speak. She leaned forward, as if some thought long suppressed trembled on her lips, then her courage or her desire failed her. She leaned back, letting her lashes droop over her eyes. "I shall be home at 11," she said below her breath.

Loder dined with Lakeley at Chilcote's club, and so absorbing were the political interests of the hour—the resignation of Sir Robert Seaborough, the king's summoning of Fraide, the probable features of the new ministry—that it was after 9 o'clock when at last he freed himself and drove to the Arcadian theater.

The sound of music came to him as he entered the theater—light, measured music suggestive of tiny streams, toy lambs and painted shepherdesses. It sounded singularly inappropriate to his mood—as inappropriate as the theater itself with its gay gilding, its pale tones of pink and blue. It was the setting of a different world—a world of laughter, light thoughts and shallow impulses, in which he had no part.

It was the interval between the first and second acts. The box was in shadow, and Loder's first impression was of voices and rustling skirts, broken in upon by the murmur of frequent amused laughter. Later, as his eyes grew accustomed to the light, he distinguished the occupants, two women and a man. The man was speaking as he entered, and the story he was relating was evidently interesting from the faint exclamations of question and delight that punctuated it in the listeners' higher, softer voices.

"Ah, here comes the legislator!" exclaimed Leonard Kaine, for it was he who formed the male element in the party.

"The revolutionary, Lennie," Lillian corrected softly. "Brainfell says he has changed the whole face of things." She laughed softly and meaningfully as she closed her fan. "So good of you to come, Jack," she said, turning to the man who had just entered.

roduce you to Miss Esseltyn. I don't think you two have met. This is Mr. Chilcote, Mary—the great, new Mr. Chilcote." Again she laughed.

Loder bowed and moved to the front of the box, nodding to Kaine as he passed.

"It's only for an hour," he explained to Lillian. "I have an appointment for 11."

"Only an hour! Oh, how unkind! How should I punish him, Lennie?" Lillian looked round at Kaine with a lingering, caressing glance.

He bent toward her in quick response and answered in a whisper. She laughed and replied in an equally low tone.

Loder, to whom both remarks had been inaudible, dropped into the vacant seat beside Mary Esseltyn. He had the unsettled feeling that things were not falling out exactly as he had calculated.

"What is the play like?" he hazarded as he looked toward his companion. At all times social trivialities bored him. Tonight they were intolerable. He had come to fight, but all at once it seemed that there was no opponent. Lillian's attitude disturbed him; her careless gracefulness, her evident ignoring of him for Kaine, might mean nothing, but also it might mean much.

"It is a good play," she responded. "I like it better than the book. You've read the book, of course?"

"No," Loder tried hard to fix his thoughts.

"It's amusing, but far fetched."

"Indeed?" He picked up the program lying on the edge of the box. His ears were strained to catch the tone of Lillian's voice as she laughed and whispered with Kaine.

"Yes; men exchanging identities, you know."

He looked up and caught the girl's self-possessed glance. "Oh?" he said. "Indeed?" Then again he looked away. It was intolerable, this feeling of being caged up! A sense of anger crept through his mind. It almost seemed that Lillian had brought him there to prove that she had finished with him, had cast him aside, having used him for the day's excitement as she had used her poodles, her Persian cats, her crystal gazing. All at once the impotency and uncertainty of his position goaded him. Turning swiftly in his seat, he glanced back to where she sat slowly swaying her fan, her pale, golden hair and her pale colored gown delicately silhouetted against the background of the box.

"What's your idea of the play, Lillian?" he said abruptly. To his own ears there was a note of challenge in his voice.

She looked around languidly. "Oh, it's quite amusing," she said. "It makes a delicious farce—absolutely French."

"French?"

"Quite. Don't you think so, Lennie?" "Oh, quite," Kaine agreed.

"They mean that it's so very light and yet so very subtle, Mr. Chilcote," Mary Esseltyn explained.

"Indeed?" he said. "Then my imagination was at fault. I thought the piece was serious."

"Serious?" Lillian smiled again.

"Why, where's your sense of humor? The motive of the play debars all seriousness."

Loder looked down at the programme still between his hands. "What is the motive?" he asked.

Lillian waved her fan once or twice, then closed it softly. "Love is the motive," she said.

Now, the balancing of the adjusting of impression and inspiration—is, of all processes in life, the most delicately fine. The simple sound of the word "love" coming at that precise juncture changed the whole current of Loder's thought. It felt like a seed, and like a seed in unproductive soil, it bore fruit with amazing rapidity.

Health in the Canal Zone.

The high wages paid make it a mighty temptation to our young artisans to join the force of skilled workmen needed to construct the Panama Canal. Many are restrained however by the fear of fevers and malaria. It is the knowing ones—those who have used Electric Bitters—who go there without this fear, we know they are safe from malarious influence with Electric Bitters on hand. Cures blood poison too, biliousness, weakness and all stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Guaranteed by all druggists. 50c.

An American visiting Dublin told some startling stories of the height of New York skyscrapers.

"Ye haven't seen our newest hotel, have ye?" asked an Irishman.

"No," replied the Yankee.

"Well," said the Irishman, "it's so tall that we have to put the two top stories on hinges."

"What for?" asked the American.

"So that we can let 'em down while the moon goes by," said Pat.—London Tit-Bits.

Hitching the Sun.

Electric power from sunlight appears more wonderful than harnessing the streams or wind. Yet we know something of the vast heat of the sun.

Solar engines for operating pumps have been in use in different parts of the earth for several years now, and their value in warm climates where the number of days of clear sunshine average high, must steadily increase. One of the most successful of these solar machines is located near Los Angeles to irrigate fruit land. An automatic stand carrying great reflectors follows the course of the sun as regularly as the best telescope ever made, and the sun's rays are thus reflected on a central point, where the boiler of a small engine is located. Within an hour after sunrise the heat of the sun raises the temperature of the water to the boiling point and thus creates steam, and the pumping machinery begins its day's work and keeps it up until sundown.

The power of the sun for heating has only been faintly appreciated by scientists in the past, but the prediction is made now that if all the coal should give out we would soon be able to run much of our machinery from the power of the sun. With 500 mirrors properly arranged to focus the rays upon the point, a temperature of more than a thousand degrees has been obtained. This almost equals one-fifth the highest temperature recorded by the electric furnace, which is considered today the most powerful heating apparatus ever discovered.

As there is no limit to the number of mirrors that may be employed, and as the intensity of the heat increases in proportion to the number of rays reflected by the mirrors, it is conceivable that a temperature may be obtained in time that will surpass anything ever dreamed of in the past or present.

Hitching the sun to run electric motors for furnishing light and power for our homes and factories is the very latest achievement of the modern work of harnessing the elements to do man's work; and one square yard of sunshine in the tropics may represent on the average one-horse power.—St. Nicholas.

Lost and Found.

The Trouble at the Stove.

Dr. C. A. Lamson of New London, says the Boston Herald, while at school at Andover, N. H., with several other boys, attended a camp fire of the G. A. R. at Wilmot. It was several degrees below zero and the stove was red hot when a veteran named Chase came in. He was a large man and very bow legged. As he stood by the fire "Doc" as he was always called, stepped up and slapped him on the back, saying: "Please excuse me, but I fear you are standing too near the stove."

The veteran looked at the stove, then at his clothes, and said: "Did you think, young fellow, that my clothes were burning?"

"No sir, but I saw that your legs were warping," was the reply.

WANTS COLLEGE BRED MEN.

Pennsylvania Shows How One May Begin Humbly and Work Up.

More college-trained men are wanted in the service of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. The company's improvements in New York and all along its lines have created positions in the operating and engineering departments which, the company announces, must be filled by "men of ability and judgment," says the Philadelphia Ledger.

Some employees who have not had technical training will, the Pennsylvania thinks, rise from the bottom of the ladder as did its president, James McCrea—once a roddman—but other things being equal, it feels that the man who has gone through a regular course of training at a college is the man who will do the railroad the most good. This statement is considered significant in view of the fact that nearly every executive officer of the Pennsylvania rose from the ranks without having had a college training.

It is the Pennsylvania's policy to employ college men almost exclusively for certain branches of its operating and engineering departments, and the plan has been so successful, the management announces, that inducements are being offered graduates of colleges to enter other branches of the service. In the following language the Pennsylvania tells how a college man entering the company's service as a roddman may eventually rise to the coveted position of superintendent of motive power:

"It is in the maintenance of way department that the youth with a diploma from a technical institution finds a place. First he is a roddman. Then he is sent to the yards at Altoona which are the greatest in the world—seven miles long—with 210 miles of track. There the candidate learns to keep car records and classify cars to handle switches, to manipulate signals and to do many other jobs that the proper sort of railroad men must know all about.

"Next he is assistant supervisor 'on the road,' learning all about steel rails, ballast, cross-ties, tie plates and roadbed drainage. If he is apt he is promoted to supervisor, after that come the grades of assistant engineer and superintendent, and when a man gets to be superintendent he is qualified as a railroad expert.

"At Altoona, where the shops and yards of the Pennsylvania compose what is called 'the greatest railroad university in the world,' there is a special course for the college man trained as a mechanical engineer. The 'special apprentice,' as he is called, goes through a four-years' course of hard work—blacksmith shop, wheel shop, car shop, and all the rest. Three months are given to firing an engine on the road. The 'special apprentice' is eligible to rise to be inspector, assistant master mechanic, assistant engineer of motive power, master mechanic, superintendent of motive power."

What a lot of things you wouldn't do if you thought your friends would find out about them.

The Right To Be Disagreeable.

If business men were to throw off self-control in their offices and places of business as many of them do in their homes, and say the same mean, contemptible unguarded things to their customers that they say to the members of their own families, their business would soon go to pieces.

There are thousands of men who are polite, tactful, diplomatic toward their customers, and in everything which bears upon their business, who seem to lock their good manners up in their offices at night, men who are known as Dr. Jekylls in all their business or professional relations, but who assume the character of Mr. Hyde as soon as they enter their own homes, where they feel at liberty to ride roughshod over everybody's feelings. They do not seem to think that the wife, or any other member of the family, gets tired, has "nerves," or troubles of any kind. They exercise self-restraint all day, but the moment they get home they seem to vent their bad humor on everybody, even on the dog or the cat. Is it not a strange thing that so many people think that home is not a place for the exercise of self-control, but take it for granted that there they can abuse everybody without restraint?

The head of the house is not always the only offender in this respect. Wives and children often seem to think that the home is the place where they can indulge in fits of hot temper, and say all manner of mean, disagreeable, and despicable things. They think that they have a right to spend a whole evening, or perhaps days, pointing over some fancied injury or over some trifle. There are many homes where all the laws of courtesy, and even of ordinary decency, are set at defiance, where the boys go downstairs in the morning and about half-dressed, with out the slightest feeling of delicacy. The girls are often just as careless as their brothers. They go round the house in all sorts of costumes, soiled and untidy, and often to the table, especially in the morning, in a disgraceful condition. They think it is all right because only their brothers and parents are present.

Many a man who is very deferential to society women, treats the girls or poor women who happen to be dependent upon him for a living, very shabby. In society always alert to show the slightest service to the ladies, he is absolutely indifferent to the comfort and feelings of a stenographer or other woman in his employ. Those who are bound to him by the necessity of earning their living, do not call out his nobler sentiments. He regards them as "just help," nothing more. They may be infinitely finer grained than himself, but he rides roughshod over their sensitive feelings, domineering, criticizing, mercilessly scolding, even using profane language.

Such a man would be terribly shocked if those to whom he is so deferential in society knew how he treated the women in his employ. They would not believe it possible, if they could be in his office store, or factory for a day—that the man who displays these coarse, brute qualities, could possibly be the polished gentleman they met the evening before.—Success.
